

Houston's Top Lawyers for the People

Government and corporations employ millions of lawyers who help sustain the strength of large, influential entities. But who's looking out for you? Lawyers for the People represent the little guys in insurance disputes, personal injury cases, and other legal battles pitting individuals against the government or powerful companies. Along with attorneys who perform everyday services for individual Americans, this list includes Houston's premier Lawyers for the People, nominated by their peers and H TEXAS readers.

Every effort has been made to verify information for the lawyers listed. Any omissions or inaccuracies are unintentional, and H TEXAS magazine cannot be held liable. If a particular lawyer does not appear on the list, it does not mean he or she is not the right lawyer for you.

Known for his aggressive representation and winning record at the courthouse, Jason Gibson has become one of Texas' most successful trial lawyers. "At The Gibson Law Firm, we believe aggressive representation is effective representation," he says. Gibson's firm focuses its practice on cases involving consumer fraud, catastrophic personal injuries, wrongful deaths and business disputes. Most recently, Gibson was successful in recovering millions on behalf of elderly plaintiffs who were targeted and defrauded by a boiler-room operation selling coins. Gibson is a regular speaker on subjects related to consumer rights and is an adjunct professor at the University of Houston Law Center, where he teaches Trial Advocacy.

Gibson has been previously honored as one of Houston's "Top Lawyers for the People," March 2005, one of Houston's "Top Professionals on the Fast Track," December 2005, one of Houston's "Top Lawyers for the People," January 2006 and one of Houston's "Top Lawyers," June 2008.
